ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Erin is a bestselling author, speaker, lawyer, friend, lunchbox packer, boo-boo kisser, sweatpants wearing Momma to her two precious girls: Bellalise (5) - a sweet, gentle-natured soul, and Annalise (4, going on 45) - the life of every party. She met her husband Marshall during law school in Mississippi and dragged that Cajun boy all the way back to the Heart of Dixie, a place he now proudly calls home as well. They live in Birmingham, Alabama where their dining room is currently being used for laundry overflow.

Erin was inspired to begin writing after becoming a mom. She realized if she wanted to teach her girls to chase their dreams and leave a legacy of leadership, she had to show them how. Her passion is writing fun, engaging books for women that encourage them to feel like long-lost besties. Her goal is to captivate her audience and make them feel as if they are sitting on the couch catching up. Her writing style is: "Hey, I'm right there with you. We're on a team. I'm just opening up the conversation for us to chat."

On October 2, 2018, Erin released her first book, Cheers to the Diaper Years: 10 Truths for Thriving While Barely Surviving, which debuted as the # 1 New Release in multiple categories and remains on the bestseller list for those categories on Amazon.

Her second book, the first in a three part series, The Remarkable Housewives of the Bible, released January 15, 2019, debuting as the # 1 New Release in all three of the book's categories on Amazon. A tribe of women all over the world are rallying behind the message and an active Girls' Night group discusses the book in a virtual Bible Study format on a regular basis!

ABOUT THE BOOK

Grab your favorite snacks, your besties, and some open nights on the calendar to take a deep dive into the noteworthy drama sprinkled throughout The Bible. These days, our television entertainment also consists of some pretty outrageous drama, but what if I told you that the women of the Bible have riveting tales filled with much more exciting story lines than anything you'll find on a soap opera or reality TV. . .

ERIN BROWN HOLLIS

Over the past few years, my friends and I have devoted untold amounts of time discussing the latest antics we've seen go down on TV. Whether we text each other from our beds in pajamas, or are killin' the lady brunch game, we are taking care of business when it comes to dishing all the deets. It is way too much fun tuning in each week to watch the newest drama unfold.

Sometimes Bible study feels stuffy and archaic, and I'll say it: boring. My friends and I were talking about how we would love it if we could somehow incorporate a fun approach to Bible Study, or even daily quiet time alone that we could really get jazzed about!

Well, I'm here to tell you, once we started "getting in the Word" for a few minutes each night, we quickly discovered there is a whole lot more crazy drama going down in the Bible than any soap opera or reality show could ever put in front of us. Long before women became "gone with the wind fabulous," they were homegirls just like you and me, living their best lives without a film crew and wardrobe budget. After making these exciting discoveries, The Remarkable Housewives of the Bible was born.

Introduction

AN EXCERPT FROM THE REMARKABLE HOUSEWIVES OF THE BIBLE

Dear Reader,

However you arrived at this book, thank you for being here. This is the part where I tell you to stop everything and run to the checkout line—this is the book you’ve been looking for. I suppose if you’ve made it to this sentence, we should get to know one another better. I’ll introduce myself. Hey, friend! I’m Erin. I am a mother to two sweet girls, a wife to a football-obsessed fun guy, a lunchbox packer, a dance party starter, and a lover of Girls’ Nights.

No, but really. Nothing beats settling into the couch after a long day, sipping on something fun, chowing down on that delicious charcuterie board that your Barefoot-Contessa-in-training friend seemingly whipped up in no time, and chatting it up with your girlfriends. Who’s with me?

Over the past few years, my friends and I have devoted untold amounts of time to discussing the latest antics we’ve seen go down on TV, especially the Real Housewives. Whether we text each other from our beds in pajamas, or are killin’ the lady brunch game, we are taking care of business when it comes to dishing all the deets. It is way too much fun tuning in each week to watch the newest drama unfold. There is something so scintillating, so intriguing, so addictive about pop culture and reality TV these days that it’s like a train wreck—impossible for us to look away from. I’m owning my borderline addictive tendencies to the franchise just like Lisa Rinna would have me do, girl.

Maybe it’s not Housewives for you. Maybe you enjoy documentaries, or book club, or scrolling for the latest news on social media. No matter what you pick for free-time fillers, I’m guessing you stay pretty committed to seeing it gets checked off the weekly to-do list, too.

Just last week, my friends and I were talking about how we would love it if we could somehow incorporate a fun approach to Bible Study or even daily quiet time alone at home that we could really get jazzed about.

Well, I’m here to tell you that once I finally started “getting in the Word” for a few minutes each night, I quickly discovered that there is a whole lot more crazy drama going down in the Bible than any soap opera or reality show could ever put in front of us. I mean, have you ever heard of Delilah? Or Bathsheba? Just Sayin’... Long before women made claims of being “gone with the wind fabulous,” they were homegirls like you and me, living their best lives without a film crew and a wardrobe budget. As a side note, can anyone even remember a time like that?

After making these exciting discoveries about the Word, The Remarkable Housewives of the Bible was born. This book is meant to be a super-fun way to dive into God's Word and spend some quality time learning more about Him through the remarkable women He has included for us to get to know. It is designed for you to do on your own or take with you to your next Girls' Night.

So, with that said, right now, I would like to invite you to join me for a good old-fashioned Girls' Night. Actually, several of them. Whatever time of the day works best for you, curl up on the couch with me and let's chat it up. Over the next few weeks, we will have some fun getting to know each other and learning about some other incredible women, too. You know, the ones God would love for us to chat about since He divinely plopped them right there in His Word for us.

The Bible is our physical reminder of God's sacrificial love for each and every one of us. He has provided us female examples sprinkled throughout to offer us guidance on any topic imaginable. Topics such as servant leadership, integrity, unconditional love, loyalty, truthfulness, and the true meaning of kindred friendship. And they are incredible. And powerful. And, yes, even all kinds of dramatic at times.

This book is designed to remind you that the Bible is exciting and deserves your time daily. Let's allow ourselves to become engulfed together in the riveting drama found there. This "season" we will cover the individual stories of five ladies in the Bible: Eve, Delilah, Hannah, Martha, and Ruth. I'll walk you through each story as a narrator of sorts—or rather, as the hostess of this super fun Girls' Night. The story of each woman will be told in the first person as if she were sitting in the room with us right now, sharing it all herself.

Imagine each woman as she pops in for a few minutes to join the fun. What does she look like? What is she wearing? Who does she remind you of? If you are reading this book in a group study, you could really turn up the fun factor by having someone dress up in character and read the story aloud. I'm envisioning theme nights. And specialty food and drinks. And games. Just like the Housewives would do if they were hosting an event. Am I having too much fun with this already?

After each of the women's stories, I'll cruise back through the details she shared so we can dish some #RealTalk, where we get to chat about some observations we see emerging from her life. Once we take a look at the lessons we can glean from each of their lives, we will tackle the action steps for applying the lessons we learned to each of our own lives today.

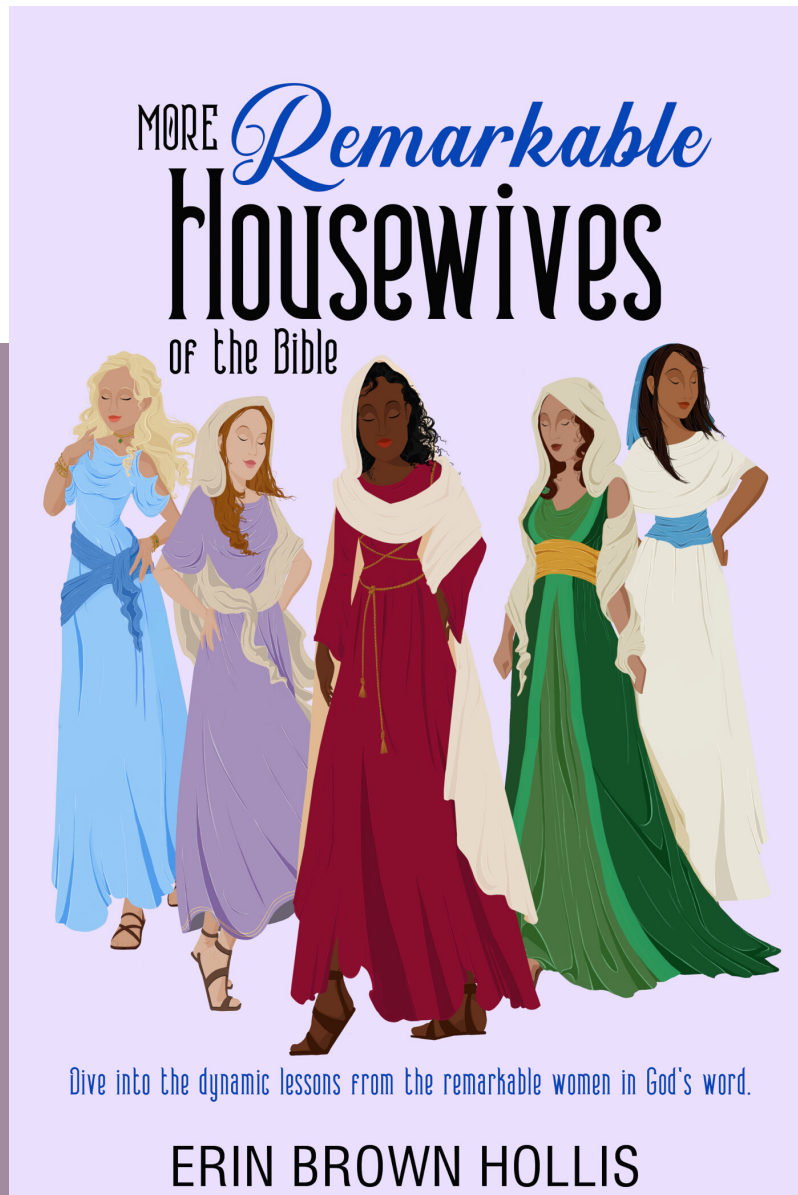

Challenge: Let's get together for the next few weeks for a few minutes each day to take a glance at one lesson per day from this book. Then, let's watch as God changes our hearts little by little, transforming us into a powerful group of women with hearts devoted to Him.

Okay. Now that we are buckled up for our first season of The Remarkable Housewives of the Bible, let's get started with Eve, shall we? It seems only fair considering she's the OG of womanhood. Spoiler alert: She messes in the nest, y'all. She blames stuff on her hubby and even has the audacity to don some pretty questionable fashion trends. Grab your popcorn. It's about to get real.

Looking Forward to Girls' Night Awesomeness –
